Sep 22 2019 When one partner has traits of Borderline Personality Disorder physical intimidation takes place three times more often than in other relationships. In 21% of the relationships the hitting was reported to be reciprocal

Borderline personality and physical abuse Abuse is a behavior that physically harms, arouses fear, prevents a partner from doing what they wish or forces them to behave in ways they do not want

It includes the use of physical and sexual violence, threats and intimidation, emotional abuse and economic deprivation. Jul 20 2020 Few things are more intoxicating than a partner who is brimming with infatuation or more inexplicable than to watch this same person become resentful and start disengaging for no apparent reason

In a relationship with a person suffering with the traits of Borderline Personality Disorder (BPD) these extreme highs and lows are commonplace. An abusive parent can also be loving so battered children grow up confusing love with abuse.

This confusion becomes a distorted value which influences them as adults. Neighborhood norm In some cases abuse may seem ordinary because all of their friends are being abused as well.

In some neighborhoods domestic violence is the norm. Sep 21 2019 Where is the disconnect? Let's face it, partners leave Borderline relationships because they are rejected or they need to protect themselves or protect their children from physical abuse, emotional abuse or verbal abuse.
