From voting to parking the ADA is a law that protects people with disabilities in many areas of public life. The Americans with Disabilities Act ADA is a federal civil rights law that prohibits discrimination against people with disabilities in everyday activities. The text of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 ADA including changes made by the ADA Amendments Act of 2008. When we talk about what the ADA requires on ADA we are usually referring to two sources

First the text of the ADA also referred to as the ADA statute passed by Congress in 1990 and later amended Feb 28 2020. Americans with Disabilities Act ADA

The ADA prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability in employment, State and local government, public accommodations, commercial facilities, transportation, and telecommunications.

It also applies to the United States Congress. The ADA provides an important tool to fight discrimination, filing a complaint with an appropriate federal agency.

This page outlines the steps to do so. The ADA Standards for Accessible Design say what is required for a building or facility to be physically accessible to people with disabilities. Detailed guidance documents explaining the rights and responsibilities under the ADA and the Departments regulations related to topics the ADA covers including service animals, health care and more. These topics are mentioned throughout the ADA.

We've compiled overviews of these information areas to help you navigate the ADA as it relates to your field of interest. The ADA explains what businesses and state local governments must do to make sure that they do not discriminate against a member of the public with a disability who uses a service animal.
