Dec 8 2025 Theunitarybusinessprinciple treats a group of legally separate entities such as a parent corporation and its subsidiaries as a single integrated economic enterprise for state tax purposes If the operation of the portion of the business done within the state is dependent upon or contributes to the operation of the business without the state the operations are unitary otherwise if there is no such dependency the business within the state may be considered to be separate

Jul 25 2025 The unitarybusinessprinciple is a rule that decides when a state can tax a company's income that is earned in more than one place

It helps separate what income can be taxed by a state and what cannot based on how connected different parts of the business are Apr 14 2015 Under this test if the operation of a portion of the business done within the state depends on or contributes to the operation of the business outside the state the operations are In legal terms a business is considered unitary if its operations within a state are dependent on or contribute to its operations outside that state

The term unitary business is often used in tax law particularly in discussions about corporate taxation and apportionment of income across states Thus one or more related business organizations engaged in business activity entirely within this state or both within and without this state are unitary if there exists interdependence in their functions The unitarybusinessprinciple is a concept in U.S. state corporate income tax law that determines whether the income of a multistate corporation can be apportioned among the states in which it operates.
