Explore our experiential civics programs! Since 1971 more than one million students and educators have participated in Close Up programs

Our mission is to inspire young people to find their unique voice and help them develop the skills and awareness they need to be engaged citizens for life. Founded in 1971, Close Up Foundation is a nonprofit, nonpartisan civic education organization that believes a strong democracy requires active informed participation by all citizens. Close Ups, once in a lifetime student travel opportunities, are designed to inspire and empower students to become active participants in our democracy.

Check out all of our program options for middle school and high school students below! Close Up programs are unlike any other! Using the city as a living classroom, Close Ups in Washington D.C.

Our trip allows high school students to make personal connections with the people and institutions that embody our nation's past and present. Close Up believes a strong democracy requires active and informed participation by all citizens.

Our organization is dedicated to helping ensure civic engagement opportunities exist for all students. Use state and federal funding to meet civic education and literacy goals with Close Up! LEARN MORE. Close Up delivers its world-class experiential curriculum for middle school and high school students through a staff of highly trained, college-educated program instructors. Each of whom works with a group of approximately 25 students throughout the week. Close Up programs are the ultimate experience! Embark on an adventure with new friends and discover the significance of famous monuments, incredible Smithsonian museums, and awe-inspiring memorials in Washington D.C. Close Up gave me the opportunity to visit famous historical sites and I was able to discuss major political and social issues with my workshop and learn from different perspectives. Close Up hosts and takes part in a variety of civic engagement events both in person and online to help students and teachers discuss policy issues and connect with members of our nationwide community.
