Jun 21 2018 Not necessarily. The difference in formality between wouldyoulike anddo you wantstems from the difference in timeframe.Do you wantis immediate refers to right now wouldyoulike is unspecific may refer to right now or one day

This is typical of English culture in which formality is expressed through vagueness allowing the interlocutor to respond without seeming blunt or dismissive Jul 7 2011 What businessdo youhave withme? Whatdo you wantofmeis a less common expression but it would have similar meaning to whatdo you wantfromme the most commonly heard of the four Aug 29 2015 Didyoustillwantto go to the park today? One of the uses for this form is to politely suggest reluctance on the part of the asker

By using the past tense there is a nuance that they hope the wanting is in the past Jul 1 2021 Ifyouwould like formetodosomething I find it much more polite to say Willyouplease ? The speaker is being straightforward about what she wants and not trying to disguise it as if the question is about what Iwant May 15 2014 4 Which of the following is grammatical? Canyouplease letmeknow by whenyou wantit completed

Canyouplease letmeknow whenyou wantit completed by. I am preferring the latter but will really appreciate your professional advice Whydol see a semantic difference here? You want metodo doesn t quite seem to mean the same as You wantthat ldo

I might use the two structures in different contexts Wantto improve this question? Because this question may lead to opinionated discussion debate and answers it has been closed.Youmay edit the question ifyoufeelyoucan improve it so that it requires answers that include facts and citations or a detailed explanation of the proposed solution

If edited the question will be reviewed and might be reopened Aug 30 2014 The first is a direct question where the questioner doesn t know what answer to expect. The second is rhetorical i.e. it is the statement I knowyou wantsome drugs disguised as a question

Addition It just occurred tomethat when spoken the meaning of both can depend on emphasis. For example these Do you wantsome drugs? and Do younotwantsome drugs? are both genuine questions Sep 24 2014 5 Both are fine options but if we re being pedantic they mean slightly different things

Asking somebody to explain something implies thatyoudon t know anything about the topic andwantthe person to teachyou

Asking somebody to clarify something implies thatyouunderstand the broad strokes butwantmore detail about a particular topic Oct 11 2019 Tome some implies
