Girls love the game they simply love drama it excites them think of the kind of things they watch on TV or read in magazines it's all drama

I mean have you ever heard of or seen a romance movie where girl meets guy handsome charismatic they date for a while he treats her really well they fall in love the end? Make the most of the figure you have I bet millions of girls would love to have your figure so be proud and love your body

The more confident you are about your own body and the more you love your figure the more he will love your body. Men love confidence it is very sexy so be confident about your body and he will be very attracted by this As a follow up to my September 6 post I need to ask a few questions

You say you are in love with your little brother

Is this love stronger or more powerful than any feeling you have ever had for anyone else including other boys? Do you love your little brother more than you have ever loved one of your boyfriends? This idea that women love their first guy or remember him more than anyone else is a load of crap especially when you consider that's probably the worst sex they'll ever have If you truly love someone you know they aren't perfect loving someone isn't just loving them for their strengths it's loving them for their weaknesses and flaws too

If you paint a portrait for someone you barely know that's where the pain comes from You should know that there are men like me out here who really appreciate sweet beautiful girls young women really like you and would shower with you with lots of love and affection if we were lucky enough to have a relationship with a teenage girl So many of us guys absolutely LOVE girls with hairy arms

It's enormously attractive and completely NATURAL. Don't listen to those easily swayed by their peers and the hair removal product advertisers

It's all manipulation and purely money driven convincing young women that arm and body hair on females is ugly unfeminine and unattractive Another question would be why so few women decide they love a big one after they've tried it? Another question would be why no two women look for exactly the same thing in a man? Another question would be why evolution has resulted in so many different penis sizes if a large size matters so much to women? I'm wondering do guys prefer innocent looking girls or girls who don't look so innocent? It seems to me that guys only like girls who don't look innocent

I myself look really innocent and this annoys me because guys seem to not go for me they go for a lot of my friends who are rather not so innocent looking and skanky Question 8 October 2007 26 Answers Newest 1 January 2010 A male age 41 50 anonymous writes hey
