Jul 6 2015 Hammered can mean either drunk or attacked strongly. Screwed up can mean to cause someone to be emotionally or mentally troubled

To use all these in the way you may have meant His opponent nailed the argument so well that it justhammeredhim into such submission that he was totally screwed up to the point of being incoherent Apr 18 2017 0 hammeredthat home can have two different meanings

First there is the expression that the nail that sticks up is the one that getshammered. So if the nail is pounded in then it conforms with the norm and doesn t stick out. So My parents caught me sneaking in late andhammeredhome that I must be on time in the future

That difference is most obvious in metal words worked iron or steel or whatever is iron that has beenhammered and has different material properties

Wrought iron is material that has beenhammeredinto it s final shape Aug 9 2024 For instance if you need to say Operating this machinery while drunk is prohibited then drunk is fine and there s no need to use colloquialisms like hammered or shitfaced

But there s no easy formal equivalent for wheelie let alone things like ghost riding the whip so it s best to use these terms when discussing them Jun 17 2020 Monica Howhammeredare you? Huh? These these are Joeys sisters

Would the meaning somehow change if Chandler said how may of the girls can you see? If it wouldn t change then can I am seeing and I can see be used interchangeably? For example I can see a bird in the distance

I am seeing a bird in the distance Apr 10 2018 Of course you can have an adjective after a noun in a sentence like These are the sorts of acorns red squirrels like

Your question more specifically ought to be Can an adjective be placed after the noun it modifies? In your sentence deep doesn t qualify a mile but the reverse. I drove my truck where? Deep in the NH woods

How deep? A mile deep Nov 2 2016 All of us are very receptive to adopting beliefs when we are young but the idea that males have to earn females is not something that is onlyhammeredinto kids as they grow up this is an ongoing process and most are unaware of it Feb 12 2020 When CIA is used as an adjective such as in CIA Officers or CIA Troops you would use the article appropriate to the subject noun or not at all for example CIA officershammeredat the door no article needed A CIA officerhammeredat my door article needed for officer Jul 26 2015 Imagine a nail that has not been completelyhammeredinto a board or a pimple
