A demonstration sport or exhibition sport is a sport which is played to promote it rather than as part of standard medal competition

This occurs commonly during the Olympic Games but may also occur at other sporting events. Demonstration sports were officially introduced in the 1924 Summer Olympics [1] though some scholars consider unofficial sports prior to 1924 to also be demonstrations. For many years in addition to events on the official sports programme an Olympic Games Organising Committee (OCOG) had the choice to include demonstration sports and events.

This reference document is designed to trace the evolution of the rules surrounding these demonstration sports and events, present those that were included and highlight some of the more unique choices that were made by Demonstration Sports at the Summer Olympic Games. Here is a large list of sports that have been demonstration or exhibition sports at some time in the past in the summer Olympic Games though there may be omissions and some included which may not have actually been demonstration sports.
