Sep 18 2014 How do I know when to use Jon and I or Jon and me? I can't really figure it out. I've tried to teach myself but I just can't seem to do it

Will someone please help me figure this problem out? Apr 12 2017 John Doe is very generic rolls off the tongue and in colloquy is not easily mistaken for a known person like John Smith might be there was at least one very famous John Smith and though that name is commonly equated with anonymity the usage is less formal

The John Doe name itself has a very long history English records of anonymous or unknown persons being called John Doe date back Dec 6 2014 From this I would tentatively conclude that 1. the vernacular pronunciation of the name became a single syllable Jon fairly early on and 2

the John spelling might have originally been a Latin language abbreviation but it came to be used as the standard vernacular spelling because it matched the vernacular pronunciation I was taught lo many years ago that you should use a comma before the name of the person s you address

Therefore Hello John is correct. I've been looking through all of my manuals to find a source. I haven't found one yet but I know that I will find it if I keep looking

If you're only communicating with one person there is no need to use the name as the recipient of the greeting Is I am sat bad English? I believe it is incorrect and instead either the present continuous I am sitting or the predicate adjective I am seated should be used

I hear this quite often howe May 4 2015 It is formally correct to say with John and me or with me and John but the first one is the preferred style in print or in school as Peter and John said. with me and John sounds informal because of this style choice

Also with John and I is formally incorrect prepositions in English take the accusative case but there is a tendency nowadays for people to say it because by The phrase buck naked is well known and means "completely naked"

It is synonymous to butt naked and stark naked both self explanatory

However there are a few confusing aspects to the Sep 19 2017 As per Jon Hanna's second example you can also use this parenthetically My manager copied will need to provide approval My manager copied in will need to provide approval As per MT_Head's comment you may also see copy on although to me it sounds more natural to use copy in on I've copied my manager on this email as Apr 16 2020 Definitely include the comma
