The film stars Marlon Brando, Maria Schneider and Jean-Pierre Léaud and portrays a recently widowed American who begins an anonymous sexual relationship with a young Parisian woman. Bernardo Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris is one of the great emotional experiences of our time.

It's a movie that exists so resolutely on the level of emotion indeed that possibly only Marlon Brando of all living actors could have played its lead. Bernardo Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris is a beautiful, courageous, foolish, romantic and reckless film.

The surface plausibility is probably the contribution of Marlon Brando whose performance has strength and detail enough to counterbalance Bertolucci's taste for pure psychological essence. Marlon Brando stars as a grieving widower who attempts to purge himself of his emotional exile and guilt over his estranged wife's suicide by pursuing a carnally raw sexual relationship with a younger Parisian woman.
