Jul 7 2015 The adverbial use of the definite noun the most is synonymous with the bare adverbial most to modify an entire clause or predicate has been in use since at least the 1500s and is an integral part of English Feb 5 2013 During most of history humans were too busy to think about thought

Why is most of history correct in the above sentence? I could understand the difference between Most of the people and Most. Most is what is called a determiner. A determiner is a word such as a number, article, personal pronoun that determines or limits the meaning of a noun phrase.

Some determiners can only be used with either a countable noun or an uncountable noun while others like most can be used with both countable and uncountable nouns. Uncountable nouns usually take a singular verb. So in your Here most means a plurality. Most dentists recommend Colgate toothpaste.

Here it is ambiguous about whether there is a bare majority or a comfortable majority.

From the 2nd Language Log link I searched on Google for the pattern most* percent and picked out of the first 150 hits all the examples like these I've recently come across a novel called A most wanted man after which being curious I found a TV episode called A most unusual camera.

Could someone shed some light on how to use most and when Oct 24 2016 Most is defined by the attributes you apply to it. Most of your time would imply more than half the most time implies more than the rest in your stated set. Your time implies your total time where the most time implies more than the rest.

I think most leads to a great deal of ambiguity. 1. If your question is about frequency in both the Corpus of Contemporary English and the British National Corpus there are three times as many records for most as for the most Apr 9 2015 Which one of the following sentences is the most canonical? I know most vs. the most has been explained a lot but my doubts pertain specifically to which one to use at the end of a sentence.

Do Welcome to the most wildest show on earth. Someone pointed out the most wildest and I was wondering if it was OK to use most with a word that ends in est together Apr 1 2022 Since most of _____ is a prepositional phrase the correct usage would be most of whom.

The phrase most of who should probably never be used. Another way to think about the difference between the subjective objective pronouns is to revise the sentence to include a personal pronoun and see which form he, him or she, her or they them fit.
