Apr 19 2012 In maths aone to onemapping mapsonelement of a set to a unique element in a target set. One on oneis the correct adjective in your example. See Free dictionary. One on oneis used when there are two people involved in mutual exchange as happens in a meeting

The difference is rather usage based but most important Do not forget the Jan 10 2019 Some people say a dog=one dogs=ones the dog=the one=that and the dogs=the ones=those

It s a rule of thumb but what I found was that this is not always correct Jan 11 2014 3.c Whichonewould you be? Notice how the subject you ended up getting sandwiched between would be

A similar exercise can be done with the subject Whichone except there is no subject auxiliary verb inversion because the interrogative phrase is the subject
4.a Thatonewould be you

4.b Whichonewould be you? 101 Onehundred andone234 500 Two hundred and thirty four thousand five hundred Basedonmy experience Britons Australians and New Zealanders say the and and North Americans do not ie onehundredone etc. I believe most other English speaking countries say the and

Which version was used first? Mar 22 2014 It has to be I have two pens oneis red the other is black. You cannot say another because that suggests there is more thanone. And if there were only two to begin with there can only beone

But if I started out with three pens I could say I have three pens oneis red another is black Jun 8 2017 If I were to useoneof the sentences below in a book whichonewould be grammatically correct? This made her think of her Grandpa and her Dad oneof which has passedonand the other is deployed Sep 29 2010 The fractional reading of decimal numbers also starts to become a bit ridiculous if there are more than three digits after the decimal point nobody would say 3.14159265= three and fourteen milliononehundred fifty nine thousand two hundred sixty fiveonehundred millionths Oct 19 2012 I thought this might have already been asked but apparently not

Is using the phrase oneanother considered equivalent to the phrase oneand other ? Isoneof the two considered right and the Howoneandone s is different from other indefinite pronouns The possessive ofone one s is formed the same way as the possessive of other indefinite pronouns such as someone someone s but it is used a bit differently

For most people oneis consistently used with the possessive formone s So butone means onlyone but all butone means all exceptone ? And why did you but be in parentheses? Does the former idiom only work with be or does it work with other
