Where do you draw the line on the difference between which and whichone when asking a question that involves more than one answer? Dec 12 2015 1Oneof the former students

Oneof refersto a group. The group that follows is plural. Students is plural of student. Consider the statement oneof the team

A team is a group. It can be referred to as singular or plural depending on the context. In this case the sentence refersto a larger entity which one is part of. The one could imply that of the alternates only ONE choice is possible or permitted

Which alone could indicate several choices from the set of alternatives could be selected in various combinations. Of course speakers are often very imprecise about their meanings intentions when saying which or whichone

Usually the context makes it clear if the choices are mutually exclusive or not Oct 6 2023 I drew the shorter straw so I was the one who collected the money. The present tense I am the one refersto the current state of affairs

You are the person responsible for carrying out that action and your responsibility extends into the present. I am the one who collected the money May 25 2022 Whichoneis the best is obviously a question format so it makes sense that whichone the best is should be the correct form

This is very good instinct and you could even argue that the grammar is good but at best it's unnatural Dec 31 2019 This is oneof the things which are really important to her

When I think about it the second sentence seems correct because things and are are both plural and so in agreement Jan 10 2019 Some people say a dog=one
