SIDS isthesudden unexplained death of an infant younger than 1 year old. It istheleading cause of death in children between 1 month and 1 year of age

Although there is no sure way to prevent SIDS parents and caregivers can reducetherisk for SIDS About SIDS SIDS isthesudden unexplained death of an infant younger than 1 year of age that remains unexplained after a complete investigation

This investigation can include an autopsy a review ofthedeath scene and complete family and medical histories

1 Feb 14 2025 Certain patterns of metabolites intheblood could one day prove useful for identifying infants at high risk for sudden infant death syndrome Health care providers and researchers don t knowtheexact cause but there are many theories

More and more research evidence suggests that infants who die from sudden infant death syndrome SIDS are born with brain abnormalities or defects

These defects are typically found within a network of nerve cells that rely on a chemical called serotonin that allows one nerve cell to send a signal Data fromtheCenters for Disease Control and Prevention CDC estimate that about 3 000 infants died from a sudden unexpected infant death with more than 1 in 3 dying from sudden infant death syndrome SIDS in 2022 themost recent year for which data are available .1 Mar 3 2025 Links to websites of groups that study and provide information about sudden infant death syndrome SIDS and infant loss In addition attherequest oftheUnited States Congress theNICHD produced strategic plans in 1989 and 1995 that summarized advances in Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS research and made recommendations identifyingthemost promising avenues of research to be pursued over subsequent 5 year periods

In 1999 Congress recommended thattheInstitute develop a third 5 year plan. Sincethe SincetheNICHD and its partners launchedthenational Back to Sleep campaign in 1994 we have made tremendous progress in helping to reducetheincidence of SIDS

Since 1994 theoverall SIDS rate intheUnited States has declinedbymore than 50 percent. This is an extraordinary accomplishment but our job is far from over Jan 31 2017 Understandingthescience of sudden infant death syndrome SIDS is a primary goal of NICHD

Since its establishment NICHD has led and supported research and activities aimed at understanding SIDS and reducingtherisk for SIDS

Short descriptions of this research are included below Sep 11 2024 Certain
