The compound determinative someone is inherently singular due to the singular nominal base one so [2] has the expected singular verb cleans

Clean in [1] may appear to be a plural verb but it's actually a plain form infinitive verb since only an infinitival clause can satisfy the complement requirement of the causative verb have. 40 I and someone are interested is grammatically correct

It is the convention in English that when you list several people including yourself you put yourself last so you really should say Someone and I are interested

Someone and I is the subject of the sentence so you should use the subjective case I rather than the objective me. Oct 3 2020 to make sure someone is doing okay be it in their work, health or otherwise. I think check up on is the best as this can carry the sense of finding out about their welfare. Feb 27 2012 Are there any subtle differences between somebody and someone or can they be used completely interchangeably? Similarly can you imagine a situation in which you would prefer anybody to any? When reading about someone on the OALD I saw the following note: The difference between someone and anyone is the same as the difference between some and any.

Look at the notes there. The note t Apr 23 2020. Here is the definition From Collins: Someone who is stubborn or who behaves in a stubborn way is determined to do what they want and is very unwilling to change their mind.

From Oxford: having or showing dogged determination not to change one's attitude or position on something especially in spite of good arguments or reasons to do so. Has someone seen my bag? Has anyone seen my bag? Which one is grammatically correct and why? Which one should I use at this place? Can you give some more examples? Sep 13 2013 What would you call someone who does things knowing specifically that his/her actions will cause pain and/or conflict or completes an action just to get someone in trouble or hurt them? For example: To get someone to do something means to persuade someone or trick someone into doing something.

This is what the dictionary says but I saw they're sometimes interchangeable used so dictionary definitions are not enough. Mar 4 2016 What then is the correct word to describe someone who prefers to keep to themselves, avoids parties and get-togethers? I'm not looking for the absolutely precise medical term for mental illness because such behavior may not in fact be an illness just an informal word.
