Hemorrhoidectomy A hemorrhoidectomy is a surgical procedure to remove hemorrhoids

Most people won't need surgery for hemorrhoids but if they keep coming back or cause serious complications a hemorrhoidectomy can end them once and for all. The procedure is simple but the recovery can be a bit rough

Follow our advice to minimize pain and prevent constipation Hemorrhoidectomy What to Expect at Home After you have hemorrhoids removed you can expect to feel better each day. Your anal area will be painful or ache for 2 to 4 weeks. And you may need pain medicine

It is common to have some light bleeding and clear or yellow fluids from your anus. This is most likely when you have a bowel movement Jun 5 2025 In most cases our patients need about two weeks of recovery time at which point the pain should be minimal and you can return to a more normal schedule
