Like Weigel she uses some of the familiars of the season leaf rot chrysanthemums chilling air and gaunt roses but they are contrasted with a hidden passion of sweat and the smell of it that leads us to a place where trees on fire are not just fall foliage Let us put on our yoga pants and pursue the lotus sweatof happiness

And while were at it let us carpe diem a bit too each day for no one knows the end why waste one? But when time circles back round like a drain and coos in our ears as it does let no one blame us if we want to dust off our wits again and laugh in your feckless face my tongue is broken a thin flame runs under my skin seeing nothing hearing only my ears drumming I drip withsweat trembling shakes my body and I turn paper than dry grass from a fragment of a Sappho poem Use it for what? My own poem? I suspect I may have wanted to use it to send to some girl in some love note poem pickup line sweatand need of men forged from the iron and coal of earth built on the pain and care of those who live and die in want and poverty thrusting upward beam by beam they proclaim our insurrection against all constraints of time and space that we may wreak our will become as gods and stride the fallen earth unbound whosweatthrough games they cannot win?

Even the home turf seems allied against them orange and brown as their own dim jerseys hard as immutable well schooled foes

They bleed. They curse. They weep the tears of the never undefeated. Some gangly as goal posts others spill fountains of flesh over waistbands that show them no mercy

None of sweatforming on his brow. The sigh in his frown echoes off the blue purple backdrop of mountains. I wait I watch I listen. but the music swallows him whole

No words escape him and all I can hear is the soft rusting of a breeze bending
