According to my knowledge my weather station provides valid data to WU every 16 seconds. But for a long time one or two weeks the station has not been represented on WunderMap. I have asked WU for an explanation but received no reply

Is there anything I can do to view the station? Station no longer showing on WunderMapMy station also stopped showing up a few weeks ago. I still retain a Gold Star and nothing has changed on my end and I know from analysis of my CWOP MADIS and AWEKAS reporting that my data is good

So it can only mean one thing The WU Wundermap is broken. Your station not showing up is just a database problem or a capacity performance problem with WU I like the way Wundermap works but I it is more interesting to me when my own temp wind data is displayed along with the randomly selected ones

Is there a way to lock particular weather stations that are of interest to you so that whenever you display that region on the Wundermap it always displays those stations? EDIT Assuming they are on line Author Topic Station no longer showing on WunderMap Read 13857 times 0 Members and 1 Guest are viewing this topic The wundermap is always droping some stations

It has been this way since it came out. Most of the time as already mentioned its a zoom issue. And this makes sense especiaaly in urban areas. However I learned a while back that a page refresh can also bring the station back up or lose others New to all this

Got a Davis Vue for Christmas and am currently uploading to WU. Can anyone point me in the directions of explanations of WU symbols? If you look at a Wundermap one can see the area PWS. But some are one color yellow others another

Some are just a round circle while others have a line out from them while others have not only a line out but a secondary line looks kinda Author Topic What is the source of Wundermap s Lightning Data? And I wonder how many people own Ambient PM 2.5 sensors The Weather Underground app has a wundermap inside. With the WU app I was able to see something that may be the cause for confusion

If you are looking at the forecast for your station and you then tap in the little map picture to go full screen on the wundermap then when the full screen map comes up something confusing and interesting happens Feb 17 2011 Facebook will not allow developers pre fill messages
