Feb 12 2022 Well the truth itself is the way things are and like you're saying there isn't so much we can do to further define that. It just is. But there's a second consideration which is that humans make claims about the way things are

These claims may be considered as sequences of characters or noises or perhaps patterns of mental activity. And we call some of these claims true and other claims false. Dec 8 2015 Truth is a property of propositions mostly propositions claiming facts. Hence truth lives in a completely different domain

It rains today is a proposition which claims a fact. The proposition can be true or false. On the other hand facts are not true or false. Instead they are or they are not

See also What is the difference between Fact and Truth? This is what the singer gives to the listener when she's brave enough to open up and sing from her heart. But still curious about the difference between both of them

In our daily life in general conversation we generally use these both terms interchangeably

Then what is the difference? Are they synonyms or have specific difference? Dec 3 2024 There is no absolute truth because we as humans are restrained from ever knowing it is fallacious what humans can know imposes no restriction on what is

And this will only be a way out of the paradox after it specifies which axioms of classical logic are supposed to be dropped and shows that what is left is enough and otherwise reasonable

There are several options described in standard logic Aug 25 2025 OP How can we attain truth if all we can do is justification? This comes down to the idea that there are historically two forms of truth: the truth of the pre-Socratics and that of the Platonists

For the pre-Socratics the truth is what is as presented whereas for the Platonists truth means the correspondence of the presented form with its idea or in the OP's terms its Feb 24 2025 5 Whether truth can exist without language and that truth is an objective reality that exists independently of us are not opposed claims although they don't imply one another

A Platonist would tell you that language like other mental objects exists in the ideal realm whether people are around to think about it or not Jan 22 2024 Rubbish. Truth and wisdom are inseparable questions and truth are inseparable

How could you even ask a meaningful question without beginning from some truth? What meaning does wisdom have without reference to some truth? Sep 8 2017 Finding truths is definitely possible finding important truths harder finding all
