Nov 28 2022 AVAEis a variational autoencoder. An autoencoder is a model or part of a model that is trained to produce its input as output

By giving the model less information to represent the data than the input contains it s forced to learn about the input distribution and compress the information vaevae+diffusion vaeencoderdecoder SDVAE^{diffu} 1 030 VAE [1] GANELBOVAE May 31 2023 trueYou seem to have some misconceptions when it comes toVAE

TheVAEis what gets you from latent space to pixelated images and vice versa. There s hence no such thing as noVAE as you wouldn t have an image. It hence would have used a defaultVAE in most cases that would be the one used for SD 1.5. AVAEis hence also definitely not a network extension file

A little bit of an mathematical annoyance but it makes it more robust to corruption and other stuff.
